Strengthen Your Organization's Leadership Capacity with The Clearing's Coaching Services

Coaching Services

Today's executives and emerging leaders face unparalleled challenges. Leaders are at the center of many tensions: stakeholder dynamics, emerging technologies, and an uncertain market landscape.

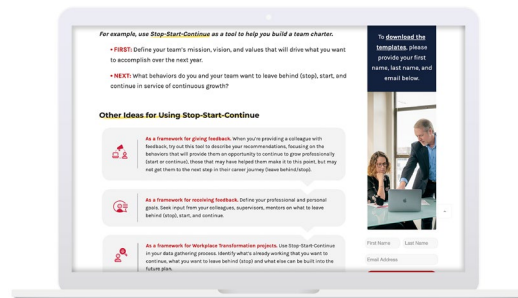

More money is invested into leadership development than any other area of corporate learning, yet 71% of organizations are not confident that their leaders are able to guide their organizations into the future.¹

The Clearing can help. At its essence, The Clearing's leadership coaching services support leaders in aligning their behaviors and actions with achieving the results that are most important to their long-term success and to the success of their organizations.

Specifically, we offer customized coaching services to support the navigation of internal and market demands. Our tailored programs can serve different points in a leader's growth – leaders in transition, those guiding organizational changes or dealing with succession planning, or emerging leaders. Using principles of adaptive leadership, social complexity, and positive psychology, we empower leaders to expand the competence and capacity needed to serve their organizations.

The Clearing's Approach to Coaching

Whatever the purpose for engaging a leadership coach, most important is that leadership coaching is integrated into a leader's daily work – to ensure that leaders dedicate themselves to relevant and timely professional development.

4 Target

Leaders set and achieve meaningful outcomes that reinforce the culture required to drive healthy performance; Coaches advise leaders according to goals.

5 Surpass

Coaches guide leaders in tracking insights, performance gains, breakdowns, and breakthroughs.
